Re: New Star General Contractors

I have worked with New Star General Contractors in Park City for many years in various capacities. From 1992 – 2000 I worked with New Star on the resort development at Park City Mountain Resort in which they provided construction services on several projects to me in my role as president of Powdr Development Company. The most notable project was the construction of the Legacy Lodge, a 50,000 sq ft day lodge of mixed retail and service commercial that was a complex project from both a construction management and architectural nature.

Since 2000 I have been a consultant in the resort development and land planning business and have worked with New Star as a consultant to my clients for whom I have provided construction management services on several structures.

Throughout this long relationship New Star has always provided the highest quality product working in complex environments and under tight schedules. I am pleased to recommend New Star to you for your project and am available to answer any further questions you may have.

Sincerely,
